“Malay Sketches” by Alfian Sa’at - Asian Review Books

This essay focuses on Malay Sketches, a collection of flash fiction written by Alfian Sa’at, the only Malay writer in Singapore who has produced a substantial body of work in English. Alfian represents the specific dynamics of Malay identity and inter-race relations in Singapore, where contemporary pressures of globality complicate the colonial legacies entrenched in everyday cross ...

Malay Sketches – Alfian Sa’at. Alfian Sa’at’s luminously observant collection of stories, Malay Sketches, was first published in Singapore in 2012, but it appears in the United States for the first time as the inaugural title of Gaudy Boy, a new independent literary press that publishes Asian voices from both America and Asia. Alfian deliberately echoes the 1895 writings of the same title by Frank Swettenham, a colonial governor of what was then called the Straits Settlements; Alfian ...

Singapore Literature Book Club: Malay Sketches by Alfian Sa'at

Malay Sketches is a collection of stories that borrows its name from a book of anecdotes by colonial governor Frank Swettenham, describing Malay life on the Peninsula. In Alfian Sa’at’s hands, these sketches are reimagined as flash fictions that record the lives of members of the Malay community in Singapore. With precise and incisive prose, Malay Sketches offers the reader profound insights into the realities of life as an ethnic minority. Postcards featuring illustrations from the book ...

A Malay doctor embarrassed by his Malay patient’s teen pregnancy. A sleeping boy on the bus who awakens a sudden feeling of tenderness in a lonely stranger. Precise yet universal, grounded yet probing, Malay Sketches gives us a prismatic window into the doubly minoritized Malay-Muslim community in Singapore. Alternating between flash fiction and longer ruminative stories, Alfian Sa’at adopts the role of compassionate and creative demographer, tracing the inner lives of his fictional ...

Alfian bin Sa'at is a Muslim Singaporean of Minangkabau, Javanese and Chinese Hakka descent. An alumnus of Tampines Primary School, Raffles Institution, and Raffles Junior College, Alfian was the chairman of the drama societies, both known as Raffles Players, in both RI and RJC. He also took part in the Creative Arts Programme twice - once at fifteen, and a second time at seventeen - both times under the mentorship of Haresh Sharma.

An interview with Alfian Sa'at - Asymptote

Alfian Sa'at's Malay Sketches is a short story collection that achieves a balance between the sensitive nature of analyzing race and ethnicity from the perspective of a minority and a playful inventiveness by making the discussion seem lighthearted. First published in 2012 by Ethos Books, it will be released early in 2018 for the international market by the new imprint Gaudy Boy.
